

To the world you may be one person,

but to one person you may be the world.